DECLARATION UNDER 37 CFR 1.48

Honorable Commissioner of Patents and Trademarks
Washington, D.C. 20231

Sir :

I, François Bertelli, declare the following :

I am a French citizen and my personal address is: 25 The Close, Royston, Hertfordshire, SG8 7JT, United Kingdom.

I am a Warner-Lambert Company (hereinafter WL) research scientist employed at the WL research facility located in Cambridge, United Kingdom.

I am not an inventor in the above-noted application. I provide below a recital of the circumstances, including the relevant dates, of (1) the error in naming the actual inventors and (2) the discovery of the error.

On August 18, 1999, it was decided by the research management of WL that the above-noted application would be filed in the USPTO together with two additional applications covering embodiments related to the subject-matter of the above-noted application. The final due date for the filing of the three applications was set for September 16, 1999.

On August 23, 1999, Jason Peter Brown forwarded a substantial portion of the relevant scientific information required for drafting this application to our patent attorneys located in our French facility in Fresnes.. Additional subject-matter was also provided by scientists from our Ann Arbor research facility.

It is to be noted that Jason Peter Brown was acting as a liaison with our patent attorneys in Fresnes for the drafting of the application. My involvement in the drafting process mainly consisted in providing technical information on the invention, either to Jason Peter Brown or directly to our patent attorneys.

During the days which followed, our patent attorneys spent a considerable amount of time preparing the application for filing. At that time, it was not possible for our patent attorneys to travel to Cambridge to meet all the persons whom had been involved in the research project in order to make an immediate inventorship determination.

During the week of September 6, 1999 and until September 14, 1999, Jason Peter Brown was away from his office. He was in constant communication with our patent attorney but their discussions focused on the drafting of the patent application itself. Our patent attorneys forwarded the first draft of the above-noted application to M. Brown by fax during the week-end of September 11 and 12, 1999.

Sir :

I, Visaka Udeni Karalliadde Dissanayake, declare the following :

I am a British citizen and my personal address is: 28 Carlton Way, Cambridge, Cambridgeshire, CB4 2DE, United Kingdom.

I am a Warner-Lambert Company (hereinafter WL) research scientist employed at the WL research facility located in Cambridge, United Kingdom.

I am not an inventor in the above-noted application. I provide below a recital of the circumstances, including the relevant dates, of (1) the error in naming the actual inventors and (2) the discovery of the error.

On August 18, 1999, it was decided by the research management of WL that the above-noted application would be filed in the Additional subject-matter was also provided by scientists from our Ann Arbor research facility.

It is to be noted that Jason Peter Brown was acting as a liaison with our patent attorneys in Fresnes for the drafting of the application. My involvement in the drafting process mainly consisted in providing technical information on the invention, either to Jason Peter Brown or directly to our patent attorneys.

During the days which followed, our patent attorneys spent a considerable amount of time preparing the application for filing. At that time, it was not possible for our patent attorneys to travel to Cambridge to meet all the persons whom had been involved in the research project in order to make an immediate inventorship determination.

During the week of September 6, 1999 and until September 14, 1999, Jason Peter Brown was away from his office. He was in constant communication with our patent attorney but their discussions focused on the drafting of the patent application itself. Our patent attorneys forwarded the first draft of the above-noted application to M.Brown by fax during the week-end of September 11 and 12, 1999.

On September 13, 1999, our patent attorney had to leave for a 5-day meeting outside of our French facility. He asked his colleague Bernard Durning to take over finalization of the application for filing on September 15, 1999 and to call Jason Peter Brown upon his return to discuss the inventorship issue. Still on September 13, 1999, Bernard Durning forwarded a first preliminary list of inventors to the patent department of our research facility in Ann Arbor, from which this application was to be forwarded to the USPTO.

When Jason Peter Brown returned to our Cambridge facility on September 14, 1999, he was therefore asked to supply the names of the inventors among the scientists who had been involved in the project. He provided two names for this application to Bernard Durning but this could not be further investigated by our patent attorneys prior to filing as a considerable amount of drafting remained.

On September 14 and 15, 1999, our Company experienced sporadic failures of its computer systems which delayed the drafting of the application even further. And even though Bernard Durning forwarded the names of the two inventors Jason Peter Brown had provided to our colleagues in Ann Arbor, the names were not accessible on time and the application was filed with the inventor names originally provided by Bernard Durning on September 13, 1999.

It was only after the application was filed that it was realized that a mistake had been made in naming the inventors. The error was made without any deceptive intention.

The actual inventors in this application are Jason Peter Brown and Nicolas Stephen Gee.
